County to add jail wing

BY TRACI BONNEY

A $225,000 addition to the Hancock County jail is expected to pay for itself in less than a year from its completion date, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Peterson and architect Fred Wagner presented completed plans for the addition to the supervisors Tuesday. The plans, authorized 11 months ago, were completed last year, but by the time they were ready the supervisors were unable to solicit bids for the work because their terms were almost over. Wagner said construction should take about a year after the contract is let. He estimated the cost will be between $225,000 and $250,000.

Peterson guessed the addition, which will house at least 25 Immigration and Naturalization Service inmates, will pay for itself in about six months. However, if the jail receives $35 to $40 a day after housing, clothing and meal expenses for each inmate, it will be closer to a year before the addition is paid for by the inmate funds.

Before the vote, chancery clerk Mike Necaise pointed out to the supervisors that they will have to take out a short term loan, which will be repaid with the INS funds.

The bid opening was set for 10 a.m. May 15.

Hancock County School District projects secure footing in face of upcoming state cuts

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

County superintendent Myrna Bourgeois revealed a financial status report Monday, which showed the school district to be securely in the black.

Despite a reduction of $55,154 in state minimum program funding for this year, the district shows a $187,051 balance as of March 30.

The report also showed a $168,521 balance for the 1992-93 school year, following expenditures which include a projected state reduction of $117,000.

The 1992-93 minimum program reduction of $117,000 caused the board to express concerns to Bourgeois over excessive spending in the coming year.

Bourgeois stated a benefit for the district next year will be the lack of need to purchase more than two new school buses. This year the board authorized the purchase of seven buses, totaling $231,825.

As a matter of maintaining the bus fleet, the board yearly purchases new buses comparable to the number of buses reaching 10 years of age.

Bourgeois stated that this year was unusual since the district had so many buses to purchase.

She added, though the bus purchases would decrease to only two a year for the next few years, she would like to use funds from state proposed increases in transportation allotments, when available, to purchase an additional one bus per year.

This plan of action, Bourgeois

The murder trial of Waveland resident Joe L. Jushaway is scheduled to begin April 13 in Natchez.

Jushaway, 22, is accused of killing two neighbors in 1989. He was indicted in 1990 on two counts of capital murder in the December 1989 stabbing deaths of Novella "Dobbie" Gillum, 66, and her 5-year-old granddaughter, Latrice Renee Gillum.

Capital murder carries a potential death penalty and is defined as a murder committed during the commission of another crime. Police believe robbery was the motive for the two deaths.

The trial is being moved from Hancock County because of pre-trial publicity.

Guice plans theme park

BY TRACI BONNEY

Diamondhead attorney Stephen Guice plans to build the Gulf Coast's answer to Disney World, if he can clear all the legal hoops.

Guice updated the board of supervisors Tuesday morning about plans for a multi-million dollar amusement park project. He said the current multi-phase design calls for construction of a state-of-the-art race course — "something like Talladega or one of the other sanctioned race courses" — and a motor sports-related theme park, a Disney World-type theme park, an arboretum and botanical garden and a movie/television/sound studio.

In addition to all the entertainment plans, the project includes a plant that manufactures the type of plastics used in amusement park rides. Guice said its products will be available to anyone who wants to purchase them, "but the plant is really being put there for the convenience of the people in the park who will need this for the various amusements."

Also on site will be a 150-room hotel, Guice added.

He said the total area the park and race track will cover is expected to be 15,000 to 17,000 acres.

Health Dept. offers Well Baby, child care

BY TRACI BONNEY

Most parents want to give their babies the best of everything. Often, though, high costs limit the fulfillment of those wishes.

For instance, many parents are not able to afford regular medical checkups for their children. For those parents, there is help.

The Mississippi State Department of Health offers Well Baby care to babies from birth to two years of age, and annual child health care for children up to seven years old. Judy Yarborough with the county Health Department said the program is especially targeted toward high-risk infants and those who do not have a private doctor for routine child care.

"Well Baby Clinic is a special clinic to help keep your baby healthy and happy," she stated. "A nurse will give your baby a complete examination, review and advise you about the child's feeding, elimination, development, behavior and immunizations. She will also answer any questions you may have regarding the care of your baby."

"Developmental appraisal is a vital component of child assessment. Without the use of formal developmental screening tools, children with developmental disabilities can remain unidentified.

"However, if through screening problems are identified early in the developmental process, treatment is more likely to be successful."

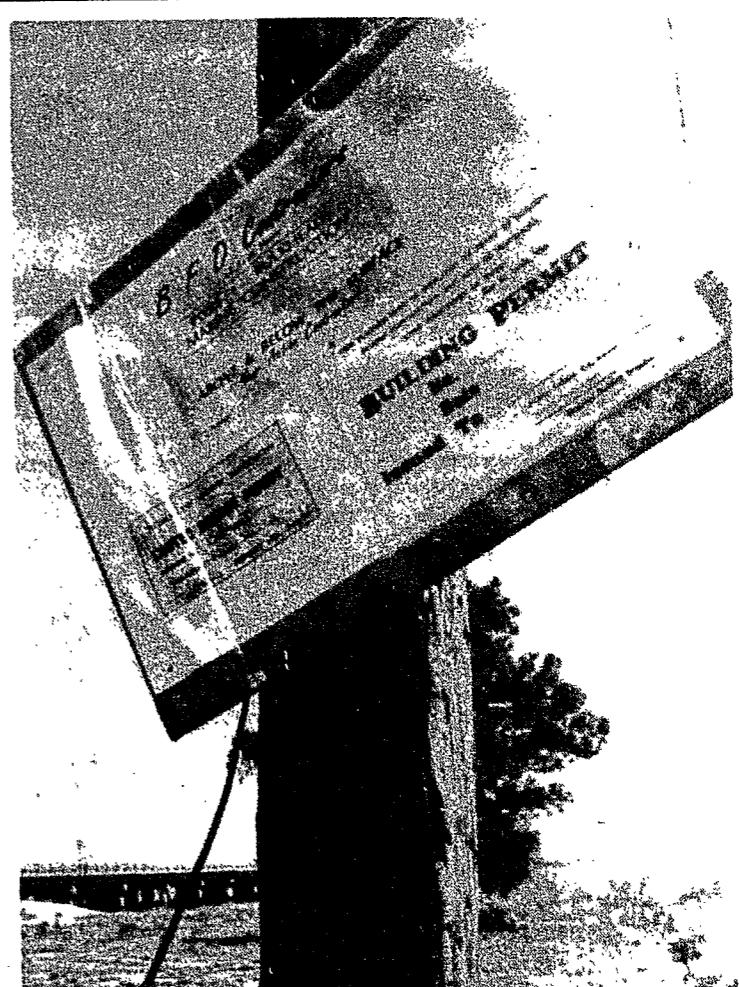

If the baby is well, he or she will receive immunizations as the proper ages to keep the shots up to date.

"Your baby should receive

These authentic-looking permits appeared yesterday on the Pete Fountain property where Mardi Gras Casino proposes to develop a dockside gambling resort. However, Bay St. Louis administrative assistant Mike Cuevas disputed their validity. "Bay St. Louis has not issued any building permit, any permit of any sort for that property," she stated. In an article titled "Kellar supports return to beat system" by Jacqui Cochran in Sunday's Sea Coast Echo, the year of the county election which voted in the unit system was 1986, not 1988.

According to Gerald Gex, attorney for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, the election was held voluntarily by the people of the county and prior to any investigations of suspected abuses.

The Sea Coast Echo regrets the error.

Humane Society continues fight

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County Humane Society president Thyla Rogers reported the failure of three proposed bills for the tightening of present animal protection laws Monday.

Two House bills, one addressing animal shelter standards and one requiring an increase in the definition of neglect, and the one Senate bill, requesting an extension in the definition of cruelty by the lack of shelter or veterinary care to non-farm animals, all died in committee.

Rogers said both House Representative J.P. Comprett and Senator Vic Franckiewicz stated lack of interest among colleagues as reason for the bills' failures.

Rogers said, "I wonder, are we the only humane society interested in animal protection under the law?"

She added, because of the failure of these measures, Hancock County Humane Society intended to begin contacting every humane society in the state of Mississippi.

"We shall get in touch with other interested parties and organize ourselves. We shall lobby for better definitions under the law."

HMC refinances mortgage bonds

BY TRACI BONNEY

Hancock Medical Center may be able to save $5 million by refinancing its mortgage.

At the hospital board's request and after some discussion of the matter, the board of supervisors Tuesday unanimously passed a resolution of intent to issue general obligation hospital refunding bonds. These bonds, which hospital administrator Don Henderson assured the supervisors will not lead to a tax increase, will allow the hospital to take advantage of lower interest rates on the mortgage payments.

Under the terms of HMC's 1985 mortgage, the hospital pays 11 percent interest. With refinancing, the interest rate will drop to between 5.5 and 6 percent, leading to a reduction in the monthly payment from $97,000 to about $78,000, Henderson said.

He added that with part of the savings from the refinancing, the hospital plans to add an outpatient care wing to its facilities. The addition is expected to cost about $1.5 million and will be started once enough savings have accumulated to let a contract.

Casano sells water to Diamondhead District

Negotiations have been finalized between Diamondhead Water and Sewer District and Peter Casano for the purchase of the Diamondhead Utility Company's water system.

Casano, owner of the utility company since 1989, sold the Diamondhead sewer system to the public, non-profit corporation in 1990 for $150,000. The water and sewer district will pay another $2 million for the water system, plus $65,000 for real property and equipment.

District attorney Leonard A. Blackwell III of Gulfport said the deal will take several months to complete. Public Service Commission permission must be obtained before the sale can be closed.

All told, the deal may take 170 days — roughly five months — to complete.

Port and Harbor municipal appointments still pending

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Governor Kirk Fordice's office reported a decision on municipal recommendations for county Port and Harbor Commission appointments probably be made prior to the middle of April.

The City of Bay St. Louis has recommended the re-appointment of commissioner Russell Elliot and the City of Waveland has recommended the appointment of resident Marsha Conery.

Conery would replace commissioner Nancy Gex, who continues to serve on the board until that time when Fordice approves the appointment.

Lisa Buelow, boards and commissions appointment assistant for Fordice's office, reported Monday that the governor had not yet reviewed recommendations for commission appointments.

Buelow said it would be at least another two weeks, if not longer, before he would do so.

She added it is not unusual for board and commission appointments to take as long as several months or even a year.

Delta Data receives NASA SBIR contract

Delta Data Systems Inc. of Picayune, along with one firm from California and one from Georgia, are joined by 134 other companies from across the United States in being selected by NASA for immediate negotiation of phase two contracts in the agency's Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) program.

These three awards, totaling approximately $1.5 million, will be managed by Stennis Space Center's Science and Technology Laboratory.

The 137 selections were chosen competitively from a total of 736 proposals submitted nationwide for phase two continuations of SBIR phase one projects initiated in 1990. Total value of all the awards is about $68.5 million.

proposed, would eliminate the need for the district to ever again be saddled with the expense of seven buses in one year.

Bourgeois also told the board that the operating revenues listed on the projected 1992-93 budget did not include millage for the Vo-Tech Center. "I am presently appealing to the board of supervisors to restore those funds. It appears we are legally correct in claiming the funds for district operation of the center."

She said the millage for the Vo-Tech Center should bring in an additional $80,000.

Also, Bourgeois reported county Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh to have estimated next year's millage revenues to be more than projected, crediting the increase of new homes to the Diamondhead area.

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This is just a reminder for folks to advance their clocks one hour when they turn in Saturday night.

Sunday will be the 'spring forward' time, so we will have to adjust in getting up an hour earlier from now on.

I really like the idea of another hour of daylight in the evening, because it gives me a bit of time to do some yard chores I need to do.

Then as the days get longer, one can possibly get in a few hours of fishing some evenings before dark.

The American Cancer Society's Red Beans and Rice Cook-Off benefit was a big success on Tuesday.

That was made possible by the corporate, restaurant and government service 'cooks' who offered their supplies, recipes (some secret), time and talents to provide the red beans and rice.

By the way, in my book, each and every cook is a winner.

It was a lot of work, yet the benefits are for a very worthy cause.

I know Janet McQueen and Anne Schmidt, co-chairmen of the benefit, deserve special praise, as they worked very hard to bring the event together. The other ACS board members should also be commended for their hours of work to make the event a reality. RSVP volunteers also pitched in to help.

Those who bought tickets need to be commended, too. Without your donation, the benefit would not have been successful.

I just wonder how many of you were able to taste beans from each of the entries, as I had trouble sampling about eight servings.

I will say one thing, there is no set recipe for cooking red beans and rice, as it seemed each entry had a different taste.

Thanks to everyone for their help. There is a lot that still has to be done to control cancer.

Dealing with disaster

Tornadoes and severe weather have hit Mississippi once again. It is time twisters have struck in Lauderdale, Washington and Yalobusha counties leaving three dead, many injured and a path of destruction.

Unfortunately, I have had too much experience with natural disasters in the past having seen tornadoes as well as hurricanes when I represented the Fifth District. Since I've been in the Senate, we've had a tornado in northcentral Mississippi and massive flooding in the Delta. So, by necessity, we have learned how to deal with disaster.

This recent devastation is an area where I think the federal government clearly has a role. When disaster strikes leaving people flat on their backs, without homes or power, with destroyed crops in many instances or often without anything, the government does need to come in and work with the state to help those people get back on their feet.

The federal government has responded by sending officials from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to the state to conduct on-site assessments of the damage or Preliminary Damage Assessments (PDAs). FEMA is the point of contact within the government for emergency response.

All of this help is available once the President has reviewed the PDAs, the request of state and local governments for assistance and a letter from the state's governor seeking assistance.

The Mississippi Congressional Delegation is working with state officials and the Governor to get the major disaster declaration from the President, which as this column goes to print, may have already been issued. The President designates an area as a "disaster" once he has deemed resources, such as state, local, private and volunteer efforts, "insufficient" to handle the disaster.

FEMA then provides disaster assistance like Small Business Administration loans to help rebuild homes and businesses, temporary housing assistance, individual and family grant programs, crop damage replacement aid, Disaster Application Centers and crisis counseling, emergency food supplies and a whole raft of things, once the disaster declaration is approved.

FEMA can help to rebuild damaged public facilities like bridges and buildings. For example, they helped down in Jones County to get federal funds to rebuild the destroyed Glade School in Laurel.

Our hopes and prayers go out to those Mississippians affected by the recent devastation, and I assure you that I am working to speed relief and rebuild the disaster areas.

To find out more information about disaster assistance, persons should call FEMA's National Teleregister Center (NTC) in Washington at 1-800/462-9029 or write to me at: 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Insults inappropriate, inaccurate

Like Millions of Americans all over the United States, I was insulted earlier this year with the remarks made by the President of Japan in regard to the American work ethic. Despite later apologies, his statement remains an outrage not only because of its inappropriateness, but also because of its inaccuracy.

The problems in our trade relations with Japan are not caused by the America worker, rather they have arisen as a result of faulty foreign trade policies. For instance, many foreign trade agreements enacted during the 1980's placed the United States at a distinct economic disadvantage from the moment they were put in effect.

If we plan to reverse the current trend, there must be a stronger financial incentive for consumers of all nations to "buy" American. While we have textile, electronics and automotive industries that can easily compete on the grounds of quality, we must be allowed to compete with quantity. Many of America's premier manufacturers continue to experience difficulty in attaining any type of foothold in Japan's markets due to unrealistic trade barriers.

Because of this unfair discrimination practiced by a number of foreign countries, including Japan, I introduced legislation to amend the Internal Revenue

Code of 1986 to restore the regular investment tax credit for domestically produced property.

The bill seeks to repeal provisions which terminated the regular percentage used in determining the investment tax credit for general business property. Also to be revised were provisions concerning property that is completed abroad or is predominantly for foreign origin. In short, businesses that purchase American products would receive a tax credit on those goods. However, the tax credit would not be made available to businesses who bought foreign products.

I understand many South Mississippians' alarm at the influx of foreign goods into the American market and the subsequent decline of our manufacturing industries. As many of us are aware, this situation is particularly visible in our automotive, electronics and textile industries.

For the United States to survive as a world power, we must be a strong manufacturing nation. I have taken the position that we must not make any foreign trade agreements at the expense of Americans. It is my duty as South Mississippi's U.S. Representative to do all I can to protect the jobs in our state and nation.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

America's protected class

If you have been wondering where Mississippi's money has gone, the American Legislative Exchange Council may have the answer.

And, if you have been wondering where the $29 billion in new taxes raised in 1991 and 1992 in 31 states is going, the Council may also have that answer.

While businesses across Mississippi—and across America—have been cutting back, reducing payrolls and freezing salaries and wages, public employee compensation has been shooting upward at an unprecedented rate.

That's the message just delivered by the Council, a Washington, D.C.-based group that represents more than one fourth of the state legislators, including Mississippi legislators.

In fact, a portrait of a Mississippi legislator, Rep. David Hallbrook of Belzoni, hangs in the entry hall of the Council's offices in the nation's capital. Mr. Hallbrook is a past chairman of the organization.

The Council reports that state and local public employee compensation rose more than four times faster than that for private workers during the decade of the 1980s. State and local public employee compensation increased by $39 billion in 1989 alone.

The rate of increase for public employees, in fact, was so large that average state and local employee wages and salaries now exceed private-sector wages by 10 percent, according to ALEC.

As for Mississippi, ALEC reports that wages and salaries for local government workers increased by 68 percent in the 1980s, while state employees enjoyed increases averaging 69 percent.

Meanwhile, for the same period, private-sector wages and salaries increased by just over 45 percent.

If public-sector wages and benefits had grown at the same rate as those in the private sector, far fewer states would have had to raise taxes, and far more states, including Mississippi, could have been in better financial

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Mississippi a little late trying for lottery bandwagon

Somehow, Mississippi always seems to be behind the curve, as they say in newspeak. Contingent on the voters saying YES to a state lottery in November, we'll be joining the growing family of lottery states.

That number now stands at 37 with the recent addition of Texas, Georgia, where Gov. Zell Miller was elected in 1990 on the lottery as a revenue-raising vehicle, okayed a constitutional amendment in November and will soon be in the number.

As a great many Mississippians who stream to Louisiana to buy Lotto tickets well know, the Bayou State got into the lottery business last September and it has become a rather spectaculalrly thriving business there.

So much so, Louisiana in the first five months of operation had $200 million in sales, almost double what was projected, and the lottery put $50 million in the state treasury by the end of 1991. Now, at the rate of sales being generated by the big jackpots, Louisiana is counting on $150 to $200 million in lottery revenue for 1992.

That ain't hay. But the pity of it is, Mississippi had a golden opportunity to get into the lottery business when the issue was first pushed back in 1986, at a time when no state on its border had a lottery, and muffed it.

It was estimated then that a Mississippi lottery would generate at least $50 million in revenue for the state, with 30 percent of sales from out-of-state, mostly from Louisiana. An Atlanta-based lottery management company made a written guarantee of $50 million to the state if it got the contract to operate the game.

But the 1986 Legislature, at least the Senate, wouldn't put the lottery issue on the ballot, even though the state was in an awful money crunch very much like the present one. It's of course a matter of history that Gov. Ray Mabus made an all-out push for the lottery in 1990 to help fund his "BEST" education program and fell six votes short in the Senate.

The rest of that story is that at least five members of the Senate who voted against the lottery got whipped in last year's elections, primarily because of the lottery issue.

No question about it, the new Senate had gotten the message. Very quickly after it arrived in January, it passed the lottery measure. The House followed suit, and now it goes to the voters in November.

The prohibition against a state lottery was written into the 1890 Mississippi Constitution, largely because of the Louisiana Lottery Company scandal in the 1870s and 1880s when a private lottery company exclusively franchised by the Louisiana Legislature became notorious for spreading graft among politicians.

Lotteries had become quite popular across the South after the Civil War as a source of revenue. What present-day Mississippians may not realize is that lotteries were commonly used in this state in the 1800s to raise funds for specific projects, many of them schools. For instance, a $25,000 lottery provided the original endowment of Mississippi College at Clinton in 1827.

In most of the large population states, such as Florida, California, New York and Ohio, lottery profits have been earmarked for education. But there is growing apprehension among educators and state leaders that tying lottery profits closely to education can have a negative effect. In both Florida and California, school forces charge that lawmakers are using the lottery funds to replace basic education funding instead of supplementing it.

At least the Mississippi Legislature seems to be on the right course in this regard. The House has passed a bill to put profits from a state lottery in a special fund to be used solely for school construction, and purchases of school buses and textbooks.

Fifty percent of the money would go to public schools, and 25 percent each to junior and senior colleges.

The bill specifically declares legislative intent that the special fund from lottery proceeds shall not be used to offset the general fund appropriations for educational purposes.

Nobody around the state Capitol now will stick his neck out to predict how much money a Mississippi lottery will bring in, after Mabus made such grandiose estimates that it would produce $60 million a year for the BEST funding.

But this may be god. By not overselling the lottery as any sort of revenue panacea, whatever it brings in can be considered languiappe, as the French would say. A little extra.

East Pearl bridge to be renovated

Highway Commissioner Ron Shows announced the awarding of a contract for improvements to the east Pearl River bridge in Hancock County.

BOH Brothers Construction

Co. Inc. of New Orleans, La. was awarded the contract with a low bid of $2,178,657.

Shows said the project is for removing the steel grid and replacing it with a concrete deck and painting the remaining structural steel.

He said the work will be done under traffic, and motorists will encounter a detour. Traffic will be detoured on the adjacent lane of I-10 under a two-way traffic operation, Shows added.

The commissioner asked motorists to observe all construction advisory signs while driving through the project.

The contract completion date for the project is May 1993.

with 10,000 to 12,000 of them being in Hancock County. The rest is in Harrison County at this point.

However, he added, it is possible that the entire facility will be located in Hancock County. "I'm not very satisfied with the attitude I've seen in Harrison County toward this project," he explained.

Guice said the project will need about $120 million in bonds, which he said will be completely backed by the Diamondhead De Lisle Improvement District. The only exception will be the infrastructure bonds for roads, sewer and water service, and other such improvements; Guice said the state will back those bonds.

"If the bonds are in place by June 1, we should have the race track ready by some time between January 1 and March 1. There will be one or two Grand Prix-type races at the track during that period," Guice said.

He added that the other units of the park complex should be ready for operation by 1994.

His report to the supervisors culminated in a request that the board pass a resolution supporting legislation to allow the creation and construction of the theme park.

A motion from Alton "Dolph" Keller to take the matter under advisement until Monday was unanimously passed, and the board set a 10 a.m. workshop meeting with Guice for today.

The bonds are in place by

The council report is entitled, "America's Protected Class."

The report discounts the argument that the increase simply was used to help public employees "catch up" with the private sector. # Tigers claw Perry Central 19-7

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay High Tigers upped their baseball division record to 4-0 Tuesday with a 19-7 home field win over Perry Central.

The Division 8 Class 3-A game saw the Tigers roar with a homerun and a double by Jimmy Strong, who also drove in three runs, two doubles and an RBI by Kris Barlow, a Gerritt Carver triple, and pitcher Jeff Hopgood's first win.

Game statistics for the individual players include: second baseman/short stop Jamie Kingston, 4 at-bats, 4 runs and one hit; catcher Gerritt Carver 4-0-2; pinch runner Shawn Keener 0-4-0; third baseman Jimmy Strong 4-3-3; first baseman/right fielder Kris Barlow 4-2-2; pitcher/first baseman Jeff Hopgood 3-0-1; center fielder Wali Shabazz 1-2-0; right fielder/second baseman Brennan Compreta 3-1-1; short stop/pitcher Marc Dupuy 4-1-1; designated hitter Benny Murphy 2-2-1; left fielder Stephen Scharp 0-0-0.

Strong had three RBIs; Dupuy had one and Carver, Barlow, Hopgood and Compreta had two each.

Coach Fred Weems is enthusiastic about the team's performance so far this season.

"As a team, offensively they've really listened to me; they're aggressive, they really want to swing the bats, and that's paying off."

"We're 5-5 for the season, but we've won all our division games. It's sort of unusual; the team plays better in the division games than in non-division games."

"We play Vancleave Friday at home. They were picked to win in the division, and they're ranked 13th in the state, but they're 2-2 and we're 4-0. We've played our division games very well."

However, Weems acknowledged that Vancleave is a good team and has skilled coaches managing it.

"Joe Hubal and Bill Leach do an excellent job with those kids year in and year out. That's why they're favored to win in the division."

The Friday game was originally scheduled to be in Vancleave, but a rodeo being held on the same grounds where games are normally played forced a change. Vancleave will travel to Bay St. Louis instead, and the Tigers will go to Vancleave April 21 for the two teams' second match.

The junior high and varsity games begin at 5 and 7 p.m.

Optimist team trials slated this weekend

SSC/OLA defends Diamondhead tennis title

St. Stanislaus/Our Lady Academy has successfully defended its title as champion of the Diamondhead High School Invitational Tennis Tournament at the Tennis World facility March 28.

Four area high school teams, including SSC/OLA, North Shore of Slidell, Pope John Paul II of Slidell and St. John of Gulfport, competed in the round-robin tournament in which each team competed in five different events against each of the teams entered. The winner was determined by the highest total number of matches won.

SSC/OLA outdistanced the field by winning 13 of the 15 matches it played. North Shore was runner-up with eight wins; St. John finished third with five wins; and Pope John Paul finished fourth with four wins.

Individual champions were Myron Labat, undefeated in boys' singles; Jonathan Sher and Craig Christopher, undefeated in boys' doubles; Cathy Cromwell and Caroline Weems, undefeated in girls' doubles; Francisco Corral and Lindy Heitzmann, undefeated in mixed doubles; Marion Labat was runner-up in girls' singles.

The team also managed a 5-0 margin of victory over cross-town rival Bay High on Monday.

To date, the team has won a total of six dual matches and one tournament, while losing four matches. On Thursday the team travels to Meridian to take on the Wildcats in a dual match.

Town meeting scheduled to discuss depot's future

Acquisition, restoration and development of the CSX Depot in Bay St. Louis will be the topic of a town meeting April 7 at 6 p.m., City Park.

According to Bay Mayor Edward Favre, the key to unlocking further downtown development will center around the historic Depot District.

The redevelopment of the depot will be part of a long-range goal of securing federal funding for the creation and consolidation of all downtown transportation systems, including a trolley line, taxi and limo service, and in the future commercial bus service. We anticipate the development of a multi-modal transportation system for Bay St. Louis that feeds the needs of our city and its outlying areas.

"It is our intent to market a high-speed passenger rail service with the institution of Amtrak's Sunset Limited run from LA to Jacksonville. However, we can't have a standard station greeting passengers when they get off the train or housing them as they wait.

"The city hopes to secure funding through state and federal agencies in a number of areas to assist with the acquisition, restoration and operation of the depot.

"Volunteer efforts by the public will assist the city in reaching its matching fund goals. There are many areas where the public can show support for this project. They can volunteer time and talents in many areas. They can contribute funds toward acquisition or the restoration.

"For this project to reach its full potential, the city needs help that only the public can provide," said Favre.

Print presentation

Stennis Space Center software selected to Technology Hall of Fame

A software program developed by the Science and Technology Laboratory at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center, called ELAS (Earth Resources Laboratory Applications Software), has been selected by the U.S. Space Foundation for induction into its Space Technology Hall of Fame for 1992.

Ten space spinoffs—experiments and products—which have made a significant contribution to the benefit of people were nominated for the Space Technology Hall of Fame. Only two, ELAS developed at Stennis and technology that provides early detection of severe storms developed at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, were selected for induction this year. This brings the total number of space spinoffs honored since the inception of the Hall of Fame in 1988 to 14.

ELAS was developed for NASA at Stennis Space Center in the late 1970s, originally for the purpose of processing remotely-sensed images acquired by the Landsat Multispectral Scanner.

What has developed from this is a flexible, versatile tool that processes and analyzes data obtained from a host of sources for a diverse number of applications.

Today, the ELAS software supports many different projects: "processing data from satellites and aircraft; enhancing MRI (Magnetic Resonance Imaging) images of the human head, breast and heart; producing images of Egyptian tomb paintings and other antiquities; processing aerial photographs; developing soil and elevation maps; and processing submarine sonar images."

It is utilized for extracting information for studies on wetlands productivity, forest stress due to drought and urban microclimatology. International applications have included drought condition assessments on the African continent, aquaculture site selection in Central America and locations of drug fields in Mexico.

At least three successful businesses employing over 400 individuals have been formed because of ELAS. Two offer image processing services, while the other has created a new geographic information system available for use on desktop computers.

A users group has evolved with over 140 members who work together to further the development and utilization of ELAS.

Over 120 institutions located in the United States, as well as groups in Puerto Rico, Canada, Mexico, Switzerland and Kenya, make use of the software. Specific customers include the National Park Service, the U.S. Air Force and the Florida Department of Transportation.

Referred to as "The Academy Awards of Space Technology Spinoffs," ceremonies honoring Stennis Space Center will be held April 2 at the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Colo., as part of the U.S. Space Foundation's eighth annual Space Symposium. This four-day event will consist of forums on a number of space-related topics, including Space Station Freedom, Mission to Planet Earth, space technology and American competitiveness, and space science discoveries.

This is the second time Stennis Space Center has been recognized for its achievements in technology. In 1988, SSC's pioneering research in utilizing aquatic plants for wastewater treatment and water reuse was inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Stennis Space Center has an active Technology Utilization and Applications Program as part of the Science and Technology Laboratory. It is designed to encourage greater use of NASA research by providing a valuable link between technology and those in the public and private sectors who can benefit from the spinoff.

NASA's Technology Utilization Program was established as a result of a congressional mandate to the agency to stimulate the widest possible transfer and use of its technology and to create a return on funds invested in aerospace research through new products, processes and jobs.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

They weren't "spilling the beans" about the ingredients in the "Top Bean" overall winner of the Red Beans and Rice cook-off Monday at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, sponsored by the Hancock County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Twenty-two different versions of the Cajun-Southern style were entered in the competition.

A spokesman and chief chef of the winning team from the Electric Power Company, W. Fred Ladner, explained that "We might want to enter again next year, so we don't want to give away our secrets." He and his teammates, David Karl and Royce Shiyou, served up a spicy version with the Cajun accent of andouille sausage, winning the business division and the "Top Bean" award for the version of this popular dish.

Twenty-two excellent versions in all were offered to the overflow and enthusiastic crowd of diners.

Most reticent was the "Court-house Crew" of Pam Metzler, Mike Necaise and Eddie Murphie, who placed first in the government division, with their spicy Cajun version replete with crab boil and crawfish, in addition to the hot sausage, along with tomato sauce.

Pam credits her son, Mac, and daughter, Tessa, with the crawfish and crab boil idea, "guaranteed to make you speak Cajun!"

Also straying from the traditional red bean path was the entry of the law enforcement officers, which won a special award.

"We gave it that Gulf Coast touch of good fresh shrimp," said Sheriff Ronnie Peterson and his teammates, Waveland Police Chief James Varnell and Bay Chief Frank McNeil.

Lala's Deli in Bay St. Louis, winner in the restaurant category, cooked the beans with smoked sausage, hot sausage and boiled ham for a tasty combination. Other entries in the contest ranged from super-hot and spicy to almost a bit on the sweet side, some with pronounced flavors of oregano or rosemary and such, and even one with a red-wine-vinegar accent. And, of the judges, I sampled all 22 variations of this culinary classic staple and shall try out various ones at home.

The traditional Monday meal along the Coast for many years as well as in New Orleans and South Louisiana, red beans and rice are also "good for you," as most of us know. The custom is said to have originated years and years ago, because Monday was washday, an all-day chore, so the cooks put the red beans on the stove to cook away with little attention, while the cook was busy elsewhere.

Here's the Courthouse Crew's recipe:

PAM METZLER'S CAJUN-STYLE RED BEANS

5 lbs. red beans
4 lbs. Smokey Hollow Hot Sausage (sliced)
5 large yellow onions (chopped)
1 whole garlic (chopped)
1/2 cup fresh parsley
10 lbs. boiled crawfish
3 Tbsp. real butter
3 Tbsp. liquid crab boil
Salt
Black pepper

Couple sprigs parsley

2 bay leaves

Dash of thyme

Salt, pepper to taste

1 stick butter or margarine (optional)

Sufficient water to cover beans, additional water as needed, as beans cook down.

Rinse beans. Sauté celery, garlic, bell pepper and onion in butter or margarine. Cover beans with water and add sausages and ham and bring to a boil. Add sautéed vegetables, salt, pepper, bay leaves and thyme. Reduce heat and cook until beans are soft. Add more water during cooking if needed. (8 or more servings.)

And here's Susan Bordages-Necaise's recipe, which was entered and cooked up by the law officers:

SUSAN'S RED BEANS WITH SHRIMP

1 lb. red beans
6 slices bacon
2 large yellow onions
1 medium bell pepper
2 large garlic 'toes'
2 Tbsp. parsley
2 Tbsp. celery seeds
1 Tbsp. sweet basil
1 bay leaf
1 Tbsp. dried oregano
1 lb. fresh shrimp, peeled
1/2 stick butter or margarine
Salt and pepper to taste
Chopped green onions (optional)

Rinse beans, cover with 3 inches of water and bring to rapid boil. While boiling, chop the next 4 ingredients. Add all ingredients except shrimp and butter (or margarine), stirring often, adding water as needed. Ten minutes before beans are cooked, add the shrimp and cook until pink. Turn beans off, add butter and stir to melt. Serve over hot steamed rice. Sprinkle with green onions, if desired.

National Library Week

Rights of free speech, information focus of annual celebration

"Your Right To Know — Know Your Library" is the theme for this year's National Library Week, promoting the right of free speech and the right of the people to have the information they need to live, learn, work and play.

Reading is and has always been the single most effective skill people can use to learn, gather information, keep abreast of what is going on in the world and communicate on a daily basis.

Libraries across the country will be celebrating National Library Week April 5-11.

The Hancock County Library System assists people in obtaining the information they need to decide all sorts of things about everything in their lives, from running a business, finding a job, learning to read, or just plain reading for fun," said Prima Wusnack, director.

Events to be celebrated during the week include: Every morning from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the City-County Public Library, croissants, coffee and juice will be served to all who visit. Patrons are urged to come in, browse and read the morning papers.

Patrons, adult and junior/senior high, may register for a drawing to be held at each branch—City-County Public Library, Waveland Library and Kiln Library—at the end of the week.

Patrons may register once per check-out session at the branch they normally use.

The junior/senior high patrons must visit the library and register during a check-out session. Parents may not register for their child or children.

At each branch, the adult winner will receive a canvas book bag, while the junior/senior high winner will receive a T-shirt.

Children visiting the library during the week will receive bookmarks with lollipops at each check-out session, while adult patrons will receive bookmarks and reusable bookbags at each check-out session.

At the City-County Library, "Rainbows" will be the theme for the children's story time, set for Wednesday, April 8 at 10:30 a.m.

Children will hear Run to the Rainbow, Purple is Part of a Rainbow and Samuel Todd's Book of Great Colors read, along with receiving coloring sheets and seeing the movie "Babar Returns."

"Spring" is the theme at the Waveland Library Friday, April 10 at 10:30 a.m. Spring is a New Beginning and Seasons are the books to be featured, along with seeing several finger plays and receiving a coloring sheet.

Children should wear old clothes to paint in, since they will also be doing some Pussywillow painting.

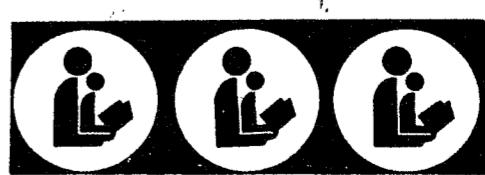

The annual 50 cent book sale, that is 50 cents per spine inch, will be held the entire week at the City-County Library. Patrons are urged to come in and purchase some good books.

"We are very excited about National Library Week," said Wusnack, "and urge everyone to come by and see what their library has to offer. It's their right to know, and they should know their library."

Further information concerning any activities is available by calling the City-County Public Library at 467-5282, the Kiln Library at 255-1724, or the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

LIVE THE LEGEND!

Franklin Delano Roosevelt enters his second year as President during the worst of the Depression. Prohibition ends with the repeal of the 21st Amendment and severe drought transforms the Great Plains into the "Dust Bowl". Thousands of midwestern farm families migrate to California to escape crushing poverty.

Meanwhile in Hancock County...

Work begins on Highway 90. Thousands of people gathered in Bay St. Louis Wednesday morning from New Orleans and Gulf Coast points (via special trains), "in celebration and barbecue and commemorating actual beginning work on the long sought for direct highway (Highway 90) between New Orleans and the Gulf Coast," held on the grounds of St. Stanislaus College.

The gathering was held under auspices of "the Mayor and Commission Council, the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County."

New Orleans Mayor Walmsley, after speaking of the close connection between the city and the coast said, "When the new highway is finished, we want you to come to New Orleans as readily as New Orleans has been coming to you."
